

Dear Sir/Madam:

I am very happy to have the opportunity to recommend Mr. [REDACTED] Zheng ,my former student who is applying for the Economics and Business Programme of your university.

I have known Mr.Zheng ever since I taught him the course of the Introduction to Economics during his second semester in [REDACTED] University.I was greatly impressed by his gift and diligence.I surprisingly found that he was among the few talented students who could realize the complicated principles of economics and keep up with the pace of the course.He paid full attention to my lecture that he could once point out my calculation error on the blackboard.After class,he always raised some questions about both the courses and the current economic condition,which made me understand his outstanding ability of logical thinking and solid background of calculation.His essay in his final term about the impact of the real estate regulation policy,which showed his gift in researching macro-economics,and his diligence and intelligence resulted in the excellent performance of the final exam(score:97),ranking at 5% among 34 students of his class.

In this semester,Mr.Zheng still kept in contact with me to discuss some events about economy via e-mail,such as the inflation and the debt crisis.And his views were always valuable and unique,which made me enjoy the communication with him,from which I got to know that his aspiration is to be successful in the field of economic research.After taking his talent and career goal into consideration,I sincerely believe that he has potential to pursue his further education in aboard.

In addition,Mr.Zheng,with a good personality,is kind and optimistic.Having a good ability to communicate with others,he is friendly and easygoing.As far as I know,he is very popular among the students in his class.I think he can well adapt to the international study and living environment of your university with his character,and make remarkable performance in the field of economics with his diligence and intelligence.

Considering this programme is suitable for his capacity,potential and character,I recommend him sincerely and I shall greatly appreciate your favorably consideration for his application for admission.

Yours sincerely

[REDACTED] Chen

Professor

School of Economics and Trade

[REDACTED] University